BIG PLANS MADE FOR ALVARADO FIESTA

Warren Delegation Victorious In Township

AROUND the TOWNSHIP

Japanese - Amrican citizens of Washington Township have once more proved their public-spiritedness. Last week they delivered more than $97 to Mrs. C. N. Myrick for the benefit of Red Cross flood relief in eastern states. The Japanese - American Citizens' league in Alameda county is one of the most active of such groups on the coast. There are at least three local units in the county, of which the township members form one. Many California counties have only one unit.

It was a sad story a one-legged tramp had to tell Art Roderick the other night. Two other knights of the road descended on him in his jungle camp near Niles, robbed hi mof his supply of shoe strings and pencils. He was philosophical about it, however. Pointed out he could make just as good living by straight panhandling as by selling his wares. He was thankful also that they left him his wooden leg and five cents in change.

We herewith offer a metaphorical bouquet to the members of the Country Club of Washington Township who attended the circus in Oakland last week. Lots of substantial people believe circuses are undignified and are embarrassed when caught attending them. They are mistaken. The circus is a typically American institution and, culturally speaking, is well worth attending.

Don't read this if you don't care to hear us toot our own horn.

Two weeks ago three township stove dealers joined the Graham company in buying an advertizement in the Township Register urging readers to buy Wedgewood stoves during Gas Appliance week. The ad cost them only a few dollars apiece. The other day we happened to see two of those dealers. They reported they had sold three stoves each during the week. Cost of the ad was so low that the sale of a single stove paid for it several times over.

Most pathetic personal item of the week: Ed Rose, Niles and Centerville garageman, went fishing a few days ago. He returned with two flat tires.

REPUBLICAN GROUP TO BE UNFETTERED

Washington Township Republicans voted strongly in the presidential preference primary Tuesday for the Warren uninstructed delegation to the national convention, which was supported by The Township Register. The vote was 634 for the Warren delegates as against 368 for the Landon ticket. The Warren ticket includes a number of Landon supporters, however.

On the Democratic side, Roosevelt received 989 votes, Upton Sinclair 31 and John Steven McGroarty 29.

Following are the complete returns from the township precincts. In some cases, the sum of the Republican and Democratic votes does not equal the total number of ballots cast. This is due to the fact that in several precincts some ballots could not be counted as the result of incorrect marking. In precinct No. 1 at Alvarado one Socialist vote was cast.

The Landon delegates carried but three of the township's 17 precincts. Those three were Warm Springs, Newark No. 1 and Mission San Jose No. 2.

DR. KITE TALKS ON TEACHING AT DECOTO SCHOOL

DECOTO—Public school week was observed Friday evening by a crowded meeting at the school, held under auspices of the Senior and Junior chambers of commeree, and the feature was an address by Dr. George Kite, professor of education, University of California. His subject was "How Education Is Accomplished."

Dr. Kite spoke with simple clarity, telling how exhibits and programs are employed in modern methods of imparting knowledge. He explained how a sense of music and rhythm implanted in the young carries over into later life, how an appreciation of coloring in painting instilled in formative years adds to the fullness of later experience.

Dr. Kite commented on the "Dutch Village," one of the exhibits prepared by the children under instruction of their teacher, emarking that it implants a knowledge of racial life. The end of education he explained was to adjust the child so he would live successfully and happily as an adult.

J. L. Olson spoke for the Senior chamber, F. J. Thomas for the Junior chamber and Henry May for the board of trustees of the school. The meeting was opened by a bugle call. There was music by the orchestra. "Little Red Hen" was enacted by the fourth grade. The play "How the Story Grew" was given by the eighth grade. NILES—Any old rags, bottles, rubbish of any description, weeds, tin cans—in short, anything that Niles householders are tired of seeing clutter up their premises—wlil be removed free of charge on Saturday provided that housewives see that the debris is removed to the street curbing in front of their homes by Saturday morning.

Print or Plain, Just So It's Linen

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

WEAR linen in the morning, at noonday, during the afternoon hours, and when "the shades of night are falling fast," then wear linen formally. This spring and summer is destined to go down in history as a banner linen season.

The beauty about modern linens is that through ingenious processing they are being made practically crush resistant.

The glory of this season's monotone linens is their remarkably handsome colorings. For the tailored jacket suit and sports and travel costumes, emphasis is on plain, firm, medium weight linens in such deep rich tones as Dubonnet and oxblood reds, dark blue, navy, also skipper blue, Biarritz green, the voguish spice brown, popular violet shades and other equally as attractive colors. Shrimp pink and coral hues are especially noted. As to white and natural tones they will lead in the summer parade.

Prints, perhaps, provide even more exciting news. Printed linens are making a bid for the formal as well as the daytime hours. Imagine an exquisitely sheer handkerchief linen (sheers in linen are latest word) in rust, brown and white done in an authentic paisley patterning. It is linens like this that are providing new thrills in the way of media for smart evening gowns.

If your fancy happens to run to modernistic florals in vivid coloring, we suggest that you select for your next party dress one of the very new gorgeous printed linens carried out in daring orange red and green on a navy background. Speaking generally in regard to printed linens, whether for day or evening wear, a liking is expressed for widely spaced bouquet arrangements, for bizarre peasant patternings, also motifs of Chinese character as well as mystic Far-East figures and hieroglyphics. Scroll designs that meander in linework all over the background are particularly good style.

The illustration demonstrates how smartly and effectively monotone linens combine with linen prints. To the left you see the suit, a new Creed model, as it looks with the jacket worn. This stunning ensemble is made of a dark green canvas type of linen for the classically tailored jacket and skirt, using crisp white linen for the blouse patterned in a green and tangerine linework crossbar print design. The linen is the finest possible quality, coming as it does from Moygashel, Ireland, noted for its beautiful high grade linens. Observe the slight fullness at top of jacket sleeve, giving the new broadened shoulder line. This skirt has a single knife pleat at its left front to give necessary fullness.

Removing the jacket of the suit, there comes to view, as pictured in the foreground, the smart chantel print Moygashel linen blouse. Its tangerine and green tones complement the monotone of the linen suit most pleasingly. The waistline of the blouse is slightly fitted. Two outstanding style details are the short puffed sleeves and the fact that instead of buttoning it is laced up the front, tiny cord lacing in and out through hand-embroidered eyelets.

JEWELRY FOR EVERY HOUR IN THE DAY

Jewelry for every hour in the day is now in vogue.

Collecting precious, real jewelry has become the fad of ladies of fashion.

Women who already own fine collections of jewels are having them re-set. Now that gold settings are again smart, many colored stones enhanced by this treatment are being remodeled.

The suit is the perfect setting for a fine fob watch—a beautiful wrist watch, or a brooch or a clip watch.

Brooches, worn at the neck of the new frilly blouses are smart and if they support a fine and distinguished jewel, they give tone and elegance to the street tailleur.

Pearls are worn with all types of blouses. Pearl earrings are rapidly gaining in popularity.

No jewel or decoration of any kind is as uniformly becoming and flattering to the wearer as pearls.

Fluffy Bow at Neck Gives Ingenue Air to Wearer

A new trick of the moment is to fasten a fluffy bow made of dozens of layers of pleated net, with a little nosegay of spring flowers in the middle, at the neckline of your new spring print. You'd be surprised at the gay ingenue air it gives you.

Or you may choose one of the new "lace paper doily" collar and cuff sets, to give a last minute air to that long-suffering black crepe daytime dress.

The new neckwear is shown in all the accessory colors of the moment, such as violet, tulip pink, rust, London tan, mimosa and, of course, white.

New Shades

Spring's top ranking colors include imperial blue, aurora, Formosa blue, spinner's red, the zinnia shades, petunia and Devon green.

SMART FOR SPORTS

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

The divided skirt costume is recognized as eminently practical for active sports wear. This simply cut dress is tailored to perfection of quality-kind linen imported from Moygashel, the finest flax producing section of the north of Ireland. It buttons up under the collar like a pinafore, with buttons running down under the arm. Its divided skirt means all the action you want on the golf links or tennis court.

New Millinery

The new millinery imports stress beauty and a flattering appeal rather than just smartness.

WAR DECLARED ON UNSAFE TIRES!

Thousands are killed or injured every year when blow-outs throw cars out of control

WHY YOU SHOULD ENLIST NOW IN THIS GREAT WAR

36,100 people were killed in traffic accidents in 1935. 895,280 were injured. Many of these tragedies occurred because motorists "took a chance" on worn or unsafe tires.

What if you had a blow-out speeding along with your family in the car? Would you be among the "lucky ones" who came out alive? Don't take that awful chance.

FREE INSPECTION

Here's what we do for your protection:
1. Inspect your tires for signs of failure.
2. Remove puncturing objects that might cause serious trouble.
3. Check air pressure of all tires including spare.
4. Check for dangerous weak spots that might mean a blow-out when you least expect it.

And if you need extra protection for carefree safety, extra blow-out driving this spring and summer, we want to show you the new Goodrich Safety Silvertown — the only tire in the world that gives you Golden Ply Blow-out Protection.

Get This Emblem TODAY!

Join this war on unsafe tires. Just drive in. We'll give you our expert FREE TIRE INSPECTION. And what's more, we will be glad to get for you the famous Silvertown Safety League emblem with the red Safety Reflector. It's absolutely free.

SALES TAX IN ALAMEDA COUNTY

Member of the state board of equalization for the tier of counties which include Alameda, Fred E. Stewart points out the effects of the retail sales tax, which he says has reduced the burden of county taxation in Alameda county by one-third. Through the adoption of the constitutional amendment in 1933 the state assumed school costs formerly included in the county tax rate.

To produce revenues whereby these school costs could be paid out of state funds, the legislature enacted a retail sales tax under which $8,613,764 was collected in Alameda county, to and including June 30, 1935.

In that same period Alameda county received from the state treasurer, principally out of sales tax collections, a total of $12,053,235, or one and one-half times the amount of sales tax paid to the state by residents of the county.

"Sales tax revenue thus distributed in Alameda county was mainly for the support of public schools, being a total of $10,713,103 for the two year period," says Mr. Stewart. "In addition, $1,340,132 for county welfare purposes such as aid to the aged, orphans, blind, etc. was contributed by the state. Without the sales tax it would be impossible for the state to provide funds for the maintenance of public schools and the other purposes mentioned. A much highe rcounty tax on property would be the inevitable result."

Now the voters are being asked to repeal the sales tax by an amendment which will appear on the November ballot, and to enact a camouflaged single tax which would place all the burden on real property. The proposal should be defeated.

DEPOSITS IN U. S. BANKS NOW SAFEST IN HISTORY

CENTERVILLE—Bank deposits of the United States today are in the safest position they have ever occupied in the history of the nation.

This was the statement made by A. P. Giannini, chairman of the boar dof Bank of America, fourth largest bank of the United States, in a nationwide radio address from Washington, D. C.

Giannini attributed the excellent condition of the nation's banks to constructive legislation policies of the Roosevelt administration.

The California banker enumerated the effective legislative steps that have been undertaken since the crisis of 1933, to protect the depositors and stockholders of American banks.

ECHOES OF P.-T. A. CONVENTION TOLD

DECOTO—(To the Editor)—The four day Parent-Teacher association convention in San Jose last week was an inspiration, and we cannot but wish that every parent and teacher in Washington Township might have heard its message.

Its theme was "Interpretating the modern School," and from the opening greeting of his excellency, our governor, through to the last symposium on "School, Youth and Socially Useful Work," every speaker stressed the importance of learning the arts, the sciences and recreations, that we might live together well, prosperously and happily, and how infinitely more important these things are than the old traditional cramming of a specific amount of academic book learning into our skulls (at any cost to the child.)

Mr. Merriam made the ringing declaration that this country is headed for wherever we parents and teachers lead the youth of the land, and that with California's climate, scenery and opportunity, it was up to us to meet that responsibility and take our state forward to a civilization embracing the finest there can be. And so 3500 of us spent four days studying how to lead our youth out toward that civilization.

Our state superintendent of schools told us that we must lead the child to a richer spiritual life. Senator Knowland warned us that democracy is being challenged, so that much more important than the three "R's" is the great "T"—the power to Think.

We learned the need of Red Cross service, of the value of leisure, taxes, of safety, movies, magazines, the radio, the press the influence of neighbors; of how the peace of the whole world depended upon our teaching the best things of life—and not one word about time tables, dates or Latin.

As the convention closed I recalled a speaker of some months ago who had made the startling statement that parents and teachers are actually filling our institutions for feeble minded and criminals because of their lack of knowledge of how to handle youth. I also recall that an eminent educator very recently said at our local Women's club that nine-tenths of the "problems" of a school are due to ignorant parents and not ignorant students.

And I think the day is coming when courts will declare as unfit the parent or teacher who does not search constantly for the best method of developing the child. "Fads and frills" are dangerous, and to avoid them, progressive parents are studying and accepting the findings of nationally recognized educational leaders like our Mr. Kersey, in the hope that they may lead their children toward that ideal civilization to which the governor pointed.

Correspondent Tells How to Kill Gophers

LOS ANGELES—(To the Editor)—We in Los Angeles suspect Washington Township would be interested in a sure method of killing gophers.

Roll a piece of newspaper up in a funnel-shape and cram it down a newly made gopher hole, leaving it loose enough so that plenty of air can pass through. Then pour a little less than a cupful of gasoline on it and set fire to it. Let it burn about a minute, or until the paper has entirely caught afire. Now, using the foot, cover the hole firmly so the fumes will stay there.

Never again will you be bothered with gophers, minks, weasels. etc., that come within a radius of half a block from the covered gopher hole. If the hole is absolutely air tight the fumes will lie underground for days.

With this method of ridding property of gophers there are no traps in which the hands may get caught, no poison grain for the birds and chickens; in addition to which there is no suffering for the gopher. He simply goes to sleep and forgets to wake up.

Off the Gold Standard

By FRED TOOLE

© McClure Newspaper Syndicate. WNU Service.

JOAN FARNELL, fidgeting with her handbag, waited before the Lamb and Lion inn in New York's Greenwich village, and anxiously scanned every passing face. Clearly she was on edge. When a hand touched her elbow, she jumped.

"Heavens, what nerves!" Amy Easton greeted her. "What's all the commotion? On the phone this morning you got all excited about something and then wouldn't tell me about it. Do you know, it made me so jittery all day that I messed up three permanents at the shop? Well, then?"

"Oh—let's go inside," Joan faltered. "We can't talk out here."

They entered the inn and crossed the room, dimly lit, darkly panelled, decorated to resemble the main room of an old English tavern, and took their regular table. Their practice of once a week lunching together at this quaint place kept them as intimate as when they were schoolmates, though now they lived and worked in different parts of Manhattan.

"Well, what's it all about?" pursued Amy after the waiter had left with their order.

"It's Bill," said Jean, her hands twisting on the table. "I'm losing him."

Amy relaxed with a sigh of relief. "What, in a week?" she smiled. "You're all upset over nothing. Why, only last Thursday you were telling me how near he was to proposing. If it's just another girl, he'll be over that in a week."

"It's not just another girl. It's Georgia Maxwell."

Amy's smile dissolved into wide-eyed gravity.

Joan nodded. "That makes it pretty serious, doesn't it? Georgia Maxwell, star of 'The Charming Fraud' and a very charming fraud herself. Her gowns, her smile, her figure, are big enough attractions, but there is her hair, that 'cascade of golden floss' that even the critics are raving about. And Bill . . ." Her voice broke and there was a moment's silence as the waiter arrived with their soup. When he had left, Amy said quietly:

"Bill, too?"

"Yes," nodded Joan miserably. "He saw her at a party the drama critic of his paper took him to, and he's seen me every night since then to rave about that hair of hers. He's even written poems to 'her tresses, threads of golden dawn.' Quiet, serious Bill! It's the most terrific crush I've ever seen anyone have, and when Bill gets an idea—" she choked and looked down.

"There, there!" soothed Amy. "Don't you worry. We'll work out some way to bring Bill back to his senses."

"That's just what I wanted to talk to you about," said Joan brightening. "Working in a beauty shop you may be able to do this—"

They talked for ten minutes and two courses and finally Amy nodded vigorously. "We'll try it!" she said. "I'll try to do it and have it here for you next week."

Two weeks later Joan and Amy again sat down at their table in the Lamb and Lion. Joan was now covered with smiles and plainly thrilled with happiness. This time Amy was on edge. She chased the waiter away with their order and leaned forward excitedly.

"Will you tell me before I burst?" she implored. "I know that what we suspected was true, and I can see it's all fixed up between you and Bill, but what happened? After trying to help bring you two together I ought to know something of what's going on."

"Well, here's what went on," smiled Joan. She pulled off her left glove and extended her hand across the table. Amy stared at the bit of platinum and diamond that glistened on her finger. Her face expressed amazement, then dawning comprehension, then joy.

"Joan, darling," she cried. "This is just marvelous! Our plan worked perfectly, then."

"I'll say!" beamed Joan. "I took the lock of hair you managed to get a week ago from Georgia Maxwell's beauty shop to test at yours, and when we found our guess was correct I showed it to Bill that night and told him whose it was."

"And was he surprised?"

"That, and lots of things. It isn't much fun to have your castle of dreams come crashing about your ears. He looked away from me a moment, but then turned back with that litle grin of his. 'I guess this sort of puts me off the gold standard,' he said. The rest of the week he was so attentive and—oh, so lovable—and last night he gave me this."

Amy gazed at the ring and gave a sigh of pleasure. Then she said: "Let's have another look at what did all this for you, if you have it with you."

"Here it is," said Joan, reaching into her bag. "I think I'll always keep it." She put on the table a small loop of hair. "I can't blame Bill a bit for forgetting about a girl when he saw that, especially when it was her hair that attracted him in the first place."

Together they looked at the hank of hair between them. Its golden dye removed, it was the color of a rusty tin can.

No Need to Suffer "Morning Sickness"

"Morning sickness"—is caused by an acid condition. To avoid it, acid must be offset by alkalis—such as magnesia.

Why Physicians Recommend Milnesia Wafers

These mint-flavored, candy-like wafers are pure milk of magnesia in sclid form—the most pleasant way to take it. Each wafer is approximately equal to a full adult dose of liquid milk of magnesia. Chewed thoroughly, then swallowed, they correct acidity in the mouth and throughout the digestive system and insure quick, complete elimination of the waste matters that cause gas, headaches, bloated feelings and a dozen other discomforts.

Milnesia Wafers come in bottles of 20 and 48, at 35c and 60c respectively, and in convenient tins for your handbag containing 12 at 20c. Each wafer is approximately one adult dose of milk of magnesia. All good drug stores sell and recommend them.
